FRENCH CREEK PRESS MARCIA R. TURNER AUTHOR BIOGRAPHY

JERUSALEM – Marcia R. Turner’s beautiful daughter Esther Tehela, was born with severe brain damage. The only advice she received was to take her home and love her. While that was very nice, it didn’t suffice for the lack of practical advice that she needed to raise Esther and her two other children.

After starting a support group in her community, meeting hundreds of parents of special needs children, and professionals who treat them, Ms. Turner researched and compiled On Becoming a Special Parent - a Mini-Support Group in a Book to help the thousands of parents who find themselves in a similar situation. On Becoming was also intended for the various professionals who service children with special needs, to help them better understand what the family is enduring.

On Becoming a Special Parent - a Mini-Support Group in a Book, updated with the latest information, is now available at French Creek Press.
